Objective and strategy

The portfolio aims to generate capital growth greater than the rate of inflation (CPI) over the long term (more than five years), with a high level of volatility. It seeks to achieve this by investing most (typically around 90%) of the portfolio in equity funds. The majority of this equity allocation will be to developed markets, including North America and Japan, although there will also likely be meaningful (around 40%) exposure to higher-risk Asia and Emerging Market funds. A very small proportion (5% or less in total) of the portfolio may be invested in alternative investment funds, commodities, cash/money market funds and fixed interest.

This performance is of the model portfolio and may differ from the actual returns received by clients. Please refer to the 'Important information' section. *Expected Volatility is expressed as the annualised standard deviation of monthly returns. **Since launch figures are from 30 June 2011. ***Source: Morningstar as at 30 June 2024. These are not formal benchmarks but are proxies for equities, bonds, cash and inflation. The Weighted OCF is 0.47. It represents the costs of investing into the underlying assets (not including any potential front-end/redemption fees) during the course of the assets' financial year. You should remember that past performance is not a guide to future performance. The portfolio's investments are subject to normal fluctuations and other risks inherent when investing in securities. There can be no assurance that any appreciation in the value of investments will occur. The value of investments and any income derived from them may fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the original amount they invested.
